Mastering positional words is crucial for clear and accurate communication. They help us convey the location, direction, or association of one object or concept with another.

Types of Positional Words

Positional words can be classified into three main types:

1. Prepositions of Place: Indicate the position or location of something, such as on, in, at, above, below, before, and after.
2. Prepositions of Direction: Describe the movement or direction of something, such as to, from, towards, away from, and through.
3. Prepositions of Association: Express a connection, relationship, or comparison between two things, such as with, without, by, like, and as.
