3. Iguazu Falls, Argentina and Brazil

Spanning the border between Argentina and Brazil, Iguazu Falls is one of the world's most spectacular waterfalls. The falls consist of 275 individual cascades, creating a thunderous roar that can be heard for miles. Visitors can view the falls from both the Argentine and Brazilian sides, each offering a unique perspective on this natural wonder. The surrounding rainforest is home to a diverse array of flora and fauna, making Iguazu Falls a paradise for nature lovers.

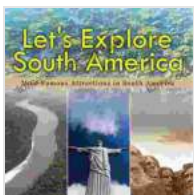

4. Galapagos Islands, Ecuador

Located off the coast of Ecuador, the Galapagos Islands are a unique archipelago known for its rich biodiversity. The islands were made famous by Charles Darwin's research, which contributed to his theory of evolution by natural selection. Visitors to the Galapagos can encounter giant tortoises, marine iguanas, sea lions, and a variety of bird species. The islands offer a glimpse into the pristine ecosystems that have inspired scientists and conservationists for centuries.
